

Love Letter from God

Dear child,

I'm writing to tell you how much I love you. I know I told you yesterday, and every day before that, but I can't let a day go by without reminding you of My love.

When I look at you, I can't help but remember how I created you. I remember putting together all the different parts of your body, guiding the process of cells dividing, putting on the finishing touches that make you the person you are. You turned out beautifully!

I love watching you grow, change and become a more mature person. I love placing opportunities in your life so you can develop as an individual. I've given you many gifts and talents, and it's fun to see you use them!

I don't need anything from you. I love you, and I don't expect anything in return. I love you because I choose to love you, and I want you to have a relationship with me because you choose to love Me as well.

I know it is easy for you to get bogged down in the concerns of life, but you will have so much more joy if you look for evidence of My love in your everyday life. I show My love in many ways: the sunrise, the sunset, the smile on a stranger's face, the gift of music, your heartbeat and your relationships. I can't wait to hear you respond to My love in worship.

In the busyness of your daily life, don't forget about My love for you. If you accept My love, it will bring you my joy and peace, and you will have so much love to give away to others.

Love,

God
